GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY;

To

THE CHIEF SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
General Department, Bombay.

SIR,

I have the honour to submit, for the information of Government, the Administration Report on the Lunatic Asylums of the Bombay Presidency for the year 1900.

2. So far as structural defects and general organization and equipment allowed, the results of the management of these institutions were satisfactory, and creditable to the medical officers in charge and their subordinates. There was no overcrowding, except in the women's side of the Colába Asylum, where the population averaged 29·8 in excess of the accommodation. But though the death-rate among the females in this asylum was high (200 per mille), it was less than among the males (253 per mille); and the records show that whilst in the years 1892, 1894, 1896 and 1897, with a daily average excess of only 14·7 women over accommodation, the average ratio of deaths among the women was 217 per mille, during the remaining five years of the decennium, when the average excess of strength was 18, their death-ratio was only 82 per mille. It is therefore clear that, whatever influence overcrowding may have had upon the mortality of the female insanes at Colába in certain years, its effects were not constant. And as regards the sickness of the year under report, it may be noted that, with an average population just over one-third that of the men, the number of admissions among the women at Colába were for dysentery only 3 out of a total of 47, for phthisis only 3 out of 20, and for diarrhœa only 4 out of 19 cases; though, out of a total of 83 cases of fever, 25 occurred among the female insanes.

3. In all the asylums together there was a considerable increase in the amount of sickness, the total admissions into hospital being 511, giving, with those remaining, a total of 543, as compared with 458 in the previous year. Of these, 355 were cured, 12 were discharged otherwise and 139 died, leaving 37 in hospital on the 31st December 1900. The daily average of sick was 42, as against 37·4 in the year 1899.

The chief causes of admission into hospital were malarial fever, debility, anæmia, dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera, epilepsy, Bright's disease and phthisis. There was a slight reduction in the number of insanes treated for fevers, but a large increase in those for diarrhœa and cholera, which numbered 48 and 44, as compared with 21 and 3 during the year 1899. Of the cases of diarrhœa 19 and 17 respectively occurred in the asylums at Colába and Hyderabad; whilst of those of cholera there were 7 at Colába, 3 at Ratnágiri, 9 at Ahmedabad and 25 at Hyderabad. The Superintendents at Colába and Ratnágiri were unable to trace the source of the cholera; but at Ahmedabad, and in many parts of Gujarát, the disease was epidemic at the time, whilst at Hyderabad the outbreak of this disease began with the attack of the asylum cook, who is supposed to have contracted it in the neighbouring village of Gidu Bandar, where it was prevalent. Of the 24 cases of phthisis, 20 occurred in the Colába Asylum; and the same institution registered 35 out of the combined total of 67 cases of anæmia and debility and also all the cases of Bright's disease, 13 in number. The percentages of the daily average sick to the daily population was 5·4 for all the asylums, as compared with 4·7 in 1899; and it varied from 0·6 at Ratnágiri to 9·1 at Poona. One case of plague occurred in the Colába Asylum, the patient being made over to the care of his friends. A woman in the Poona Asylum sustained a simple facture of the forearm, the result of a fall; but this was the only injury of a serious nature which occurred.

4. With a slightly smaller population, the total number of deaths increased by 53; and of these diarrhœa and cholera accounted for 38. Owing mainly to these two causes, the ratios of mortality at the Colába, Ahmedabad and Hyderabad asylums were very largely augmented. At Poona the ratios were slightly greater than, and at Ratnágiri about the same as, in 1899, whilst at the Dhárwár asylum they were much reduced, the number of deaths being only 2 as against 7 in the preceding year. At the Colába Asylum, the total mortality was 143·1 per mille, as compared with 104·5 in the previous year, whilst that among the European patients was 51·5, and among the Natives 165·4 of the total population, as against 53·6 and 119 during the year 1899.

Among the Europeans at Colába there were five deaths, viz., one each from phthisis, remittent fever, cholera, anæmia and Bright's disease. Of the 66 deaths among natives at the same asylum, 4 were ascribed to cholera, 15 to dysentery, 17 to phthisis, 10 to Bright's disease and 4 to anæmia.

At the Ratnágiri Asylum the three deaths were all caused by cholera, and the ratio of mortality to total population was only 25 per mille.

At Poona, the causes of the 12 deaths were debility 4, diarrhœa 3, dysentery 2, and apoplexy, epilepsy and pneumonia one each.

At Dhárwár, the two deaths resulted from diarrhœa and exhaustion. In the first case death occurred in eleven weeks, and in the other within five hours after admission into the asylum.

At Ahmedabad there were 23 deaths, as compared with 5 in 1899; and the ratio of deaths to population rose from 39·1 to 179·7 per mille. Cholera and phthisis accounted for 4 each, pneumonia 3, diarrhœa 2, and dysentery, remittent fever, scurvy, anæmia, debility, old age, cellulitis, bronchitis, acute nephritis and snake-bite one each. In the last-mentioned case a woman died three hours after being bitten in the hand by a Krait (Bungarus), which she caught whilst it was creeping towards her and brought to the female warder.

At the Sir Cowasji Jehangir Asylum at Hyderabad there were 28 deaths as compared with 7 in 1899, and the ratio increased from 50·7 to 205·9 per mille of the total population. Cholera caused 13, diarrhœa 6, debility 4, and scurvy, epilepsy, cellulitis, pneumonia and sunstroke one each of the fatal cases.

Post mortem examinations were made in only thirteen instances, viz. 9 at Colába, 2 at Poona and 2 at Dhárwár.

The subjoined statement gives the ratios of sickness and mortality in each of the asylums during the year 1900, together with the totals for 1899.

5. I inspected all the Lunatic Asylums except the one at Ratnágiri, and found them in good order; and the Principal Medical Officer in Sind made a satisfactory report regarding the Hyderabad Asylum. The buildings generally are in good condition, excepting those at Colába.

At Ratnágiri, the urinals and privies attached to the sleeping wards remain unimproved. There is also need for four additional cells in the non-criminal yard; and, as previously reported, No. 5 block of cells is faulty in plan. A cook-room is required for the quarters of the Hospital Assistant.

At Poona, no additions or alterations were made during the year under review. The buildings remain unsuitable and ill-arranged; for, as in most of the other asylums, there is no separation of criminals, or juveniles, or of patients with various forms or phases of insanity; and the recreation yards are small and confined. But as a new asylum is projected, I need not give details to show its necessity.

At Dhárwár, the mortuary was paved, and its windows were fitted with wire netting; and minor alterations were made in other parts of the buildings. The chief remaining defects are the want of distinct accommodation for criminal lunatics and more complete isolation of the women's from the men's buildings. Accommodation for six warders who now live in the town, and other minor improvements, are also necessary.

At Ahmedabad, new cook-rooms have recently been completed, the old ones being utilized as day sheds. The latrine which existed in the west yard of the asylum, being little used, has been converted into a store-room. A screen has been erected opposite the entrance to the female yard, so as to shut it off from the view of the men whenever the door is opened.

At the Sir Cowasji Jehangir Lunatic Asylum at Hyderabad, one of the barracks has been converted into six cells. The necessity for raising the outer walls is again urged, as they are so low as to permit of the escape of lunatics.

6. The water-supply of all the asylums was reported to be good, and sufficient for all ordinary purposes; but at Hyderabad and Ratnágiri the quantity was at times inadequate for cultivation.

7. The usual repairs have been carried out by the Public Works Department. The cost of repairs to the buildings of the Colába Asylum amounted to Rs. 4,843-5-10 as compared with Rs. 3,975-7-0 in the year 1899.

The undermentioned works were executed out of the discretionary grant at my disposal during the year 1900:—

8. The official visitors were regular in their attendance at all the asylums, except that at Colába, in January 1900, the Commissioner of Police for the City of Bombay, and at Ahmedabad, in August 1900, the Collector, the Sessions Judge, the Senior Military Medical Officer and the Superintendent of Police, and in the month of October 1900 the Senior Military Medical Officer, failed to attend the meetings or to provide substitutes, during their absence, as required by Government orders.

9. On the statistical tables appended to this report, I beg to offer the following notes:—

Statement No. I shows that the total population of the asylums during the year 1900 was 1,089, or 25 less than in the previous year. Of these, 862 were males and 227 females, as compared with 902 males and 212 females in 1899. On 1st January 1900 there remained 630 males and 174 females. During the year 232 males and 53 females were admitted, of whom 16 males and 6 females were re-admitted; 64 males and 9 females were discharged cured; 96 males and 17 females were transferred to the care of friends, and 5 males discharged otherwise. The deaths comprised 111 males and 28 females, as compared with 77 males and 9 females in 1899. At the close of the year 1900 there remained 586 males and 173 females, total 759, against 804 (males 630 and females 174) in the previous year. The daily average strength was 603·5 males and 175·7 females = 779·2, as compared with 795·0 (males 622·0 and females 173·0) in 1899.

The percentages of cures and deaths to the daily average strength were :—

Cured	... Males	...	...	10·6
	Females	...	...	5·1
		Total	...	9·4
Died...	... Males	...	...	18·4
	Females	...	...	15·9
		Total	...	17·8

The percentages to admissions were—

Cured	... Males	...	27·6	Total ... 25·6
	Females	...	17·0
Died	... Males	...	47·8	„ ... 48·8
	Females	...	52·8

There were three escapes during the year,—all non-criminals and inmates of the asylum at Hyderabad. One was recaptured and two are still at large.

10. Statement No. II shows that the total number of criminal lunatics confined was 132 as compared with 148 in the year 1899, and that their daily average strength was 107·6 as against 115·7 in the preceding year. This class of insanes is sub-divided as follows:—

	Colába.	Ratnagiri.	Poona.	Dhárwár.	Ahmedabad.	Hyderabad (Sir Cowasji Jehangir).	Total.
Those tried and acquitted on the ground of insanity...	4	9	2	...	5	4	24
Those insane on admission and found to be incapable of making a defence.	35	14	1	11	7	14	82
Those who became insane during imprisonment...	6	1	3	4	12	...	26
Total ...	45	24	6	15	24	18	132

The crimes recorded against the 132 criminal lunatics were theft 25, culpable homicide amounting to murder 51, culpable homicide not amounting to murder 8, attempted suicide 4, causing grievous hurt 11, house-breaking 11, mischief and assault 4, and miscellaneous offences 18 in number.

11. Statements Nos. III, IV and V seem to need few special remarks. Of the 41 European Military insanes, 4 came from Bombay, 14 from Bengal, 17 from the Punjáb, and 16 from Madras; and of the 14 Civilian Europeans admitted, 8 came from Bombay, 3 from Bengal, and 3 were sailors. As usual, a large proportion of those admitted were soldiers (41 Europeans) and mendicants; but in 38 cases the patients had no occupation, and in 38 others it could not be ascertained.

Of the total insanes treated, 592 were Hindus, 238 Mahomedans, 186 Christians, 63 Párs and 10 of other religions; 400 were married, 419 single, 105 widowed, and the state of 165 was unknown. The percentage of cures among the married and widowed was 8·5, and among the others only 4·8; and whilst the deaths to treated were nearly equal (average 11·2 per cent.) among the married, single and widowed, the ratio amongst the unknown cases was 23·6 per cent.

12. Statement No. VI shows the various types of insanity, with the result of the treatment of each form, and is summarized in the subjoined table:—

	Remained.	Admitted.	Total.	Recovered.	Improved.	Died.
Idiocy	42	18	60	2	3	10

Total ...	804	285	1,089	73	94	139

13. Statement No. VII shows that the alleged causes of insanity among the 1,089 insanes confined was reported in 583 cases, or 53 per cent, as compared with 48 per cent. during the year 1899. Of the supposed causes, 443 were physical and 140 moral in their nature.

The following are the causes, as far as ascertained, leading to insanity in persons charged with crimes of violence:—

Gánja smoking	10

14. Statement No. VIII is the cash account of the asylums for the year 1900. The total income was Rs. 1,58,516-8-11. Of this, Rs. 1,26,727-3-5 were received from the treasury, Rs. 18,649-4-8 from paying patients, Rs. 3,709-10-4 from the Manufacturing Department, being the value at market rates, less cost of raw materials, of articles supplied to the asylums and sold to the public, and Rs. 8,707-7-9 were "book receipts" the corresponding figures for the previous year being Rs. 1,22,022-14-2, Rs. 17,380-2-11, Rs. 3,056-1-0 and Rs. 8,664-11-1. Miscellaneous receipts amounted to Rs. 722-13-9, as compared with Rs. 742-14-9 in 1899.

The total expenditure was Rs. 1,58,516-8-11 against Rs. 1,51,866-11-11 in 1899. The establishment cost Rs. 49,280-4-8, as compared with Rs. 46,264-3-8 in the previous year. The increase was due to the Superintendent of the Colába Asylum having been on duty for a longer period, and to the employment of an Assistant Surgeon of a higher grade at the same Institution, and also to the payment of compensation for dearness of provisions to servants at all the asylums. The cost of diets was Rs. 62,924-0-10, the increase of Rs. 2,488-10-10 over the previous year being due to the very high prices of grain owing to famine. There was a decrease of Rs. 512-9-7 in the cost of clothing and bedding; whereas medicines and contingencies show an increase of Rs. 107-7-6 and Rs. 102-12-2, respectively, over the previous year.

If the sums of Rs. 18,649-4-8 received from paying patients, Rs. 1,425-9-11 on account of the sale of manufactured goods to the public, Rs. 2,284-0-5 made over to the asylums for asylum purposes and Rs. 722-13-9 got from miscellaneous sources—total Rs. 23,081-12-9,—be deducted from the amount received from the treasury together with that adjusted to Government as "book charges," the net cost to Government was Rs. 1,12,352-15-5, as compared with Rs. 1,09,508-6-7 in 1899; and the net cost per head of daily average strength was Rs. 144-3-1 against Rs. 137-11-11 in the previous year.

The sum expended for the amusement of the inmates during the year under review was Rs. 1,479, as compared with Rs. 1,380 in 1899.

It will be seen that, owing to the dearness of provisions, the cost of diets rose from Rs. 76-0-4 in the previous year to Rs. 80-12-1 per head during the year 1900. The total cost per head at different asylums varied according to the class of patients and the prices of food in the districts in which they are situated.

15. Statement No. IX shows the sanctioned establishment as it stood on 31st December 1900. The monthly cost was Rs. 3,942-8-0, showing an increase of Rs. 50, due to the increased rate of pay to the Assistant Surgeon of the Colába Lunatic Asylum.

16. Statement No. X gives the receipts and expenditure of the Manufacturing Department. The total credits amounted to Rs. 4,289-9-10, and debits to Rs. 1,611-0-4, showing a profit of Rs. 2,678-9-6, as compared with Rs. 1,385-6-3 in 1899. The average number of insanes employed during the year was 357·3 (males 287·1 and females 70·2) against 328·9 (males 267·0 and females 61·9) in the previous year. In calculating the percentage of the lunatics employed, those used as supplementary servants of the asylums, i.e., for works other than manufactures, have also been included in this statement; but the estimated value of their labour has not been taken into account.

All inmates capable of doing useful occupations were, as far as possible, employed; but there is an absence of facilities for occupation and of intelligent supervision.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,

G. BAINBRIDGE, M.D., Surgeon-General,
Surgeon-General with the Government of Bombay.
